Access and inspection of records and property; submission of itineraries.

Upon inspection team arrival at the facility on 6 February 2024 at approximately 11:15 AM, the licensee was immediately hostile and verbally aggressive. She made repeated demands and insisted that since inspectors were on her property, we had to do what she told us. APHIS officials stated that if her hostility persisted, we would have to leave the premises. At this point, an employee offered to take us around and the licensee left the area. After inspecting a small number of dogs in one area, inspectors observed an adult female sheepdog with a shaved ear and sutures in the pinna. Inspectors asked the employee to use the facility microchip scanner to identify this dog to determine compliance with adequate veterinary care regulations. The employee led the inspection team outside to ask the licensee for the scanner. She immediately became extremely upset, shouting that her "scanner batteries were dead and that she wasn't buying another". She also insisted that inspectors should "have our own scanner". At this point inspectors explained to the licensee that we would need access to medical records to assess care for the animals. The licensee immediately refused to allow access to any records, stating that her "lawyers told her not to let anyone see her records". She was informed that refusal of any part of the inspection meant refusing the entire inspection. She responded by saying "Well goodbye then". This constituted a refusal of inspection and the inspection team immediately left the facility.

This inspection and exit interview were refused by the licensee.
