3.13(a)(3)

Veterinary care for dogs.

The facility has not completed any sampling for intestinal parasites within the past year. The Program of Vet Care (PVC) that the facility has does not specify a schedule for which this sampling is to be done. Sampling and treatment of parasites, such as worms, coccidia, and giardia, (which are found by fecal testing), as prescribed by the PVC, is a way for APHIS inspectors to assess that adequate veterinary care is being given to dogs at licensed facilities. Correct by receiving guidance by the Attending Veterinarian, to implement a schedule for sampling and treatment of parasites. Correct by July 29, 2024.

This inspection and exit interview were conducted with the licensee.
