3.1(a)

Housing facilities, general.

Buildings 35 and 37 have sections of enclosures where paint is actively flaking off metal support beams above enclosures, and at the base frame of the door where the dogs are scratching. Flaking paint was also observed on the ground underneath enclosures. Flaking paint can pose a potential hazard to the dogs and the enclosures in these building need to be maintained in good repair for the safety of the animals.

3.132

Employees.

During the inspection a single ferret was found in a designated empty enclosure after the remaining members of the group had been moved. It's the facility's husbandry practice to move groups of animals from one set of enclosures to another when its time to sanitize buildings. In this instance, three of the four animals were moved with one left in the enclosure. The ferret was found in the nesting box of the open pen, with food and water available. Employees must make sure that the number of animals pulled for enclosure transfer match the number of animals identified per the facility's handling and husbandry practices. Employees must be adequately trained under the direction of a supervisor to maintain professionally acceptable levels of husbandry care for these animals.
