Feeding

A female Shih Tzu, "Jada" (no id) was in the whelping box nursing puppies. She was thin and her ribs, lumbar vertebrae and pelvic bones were easily visible, with no palpable fat. The licensee states that she is on a higher quality dry puppy food, but based on her condition and the nutritional needs she requires to nurse puppies, additional supplementation of nutritive value should be provided to maintain the normal condition and weight of the animal during this life stage.

Another female Shih Tzu, "Glorianna" #260 who is pregnant and due to whelp soon was also thin and her ribs, lumbar vertebrae and pelvic bones were easily visible, with no palpable fat. This dog is also on higher quality dry puppy food, but based on her condition and the nutritional needs she requires to nurse puppies, additional supplementation of nutritive value should be provided to maintain the normal condition and weight of the animal during this life stage.

Inspection Report

There is a large accumulation of feces that has not been removed from the outdoor run for the three large breed dogs. Fecal and food waste must be removed from primary enclosures daily to prevent the dogs from becoming soiled and to reduce disease hazards, pests and odors.
